

Important Reminder: Risks and Responsibilities in Social Copy Trading and PAMM Subscriptions

2024-07-22 - Lucas From Support - Accounts

Dear Client,

Social Copy Trading and PAMM Subscriptions can offer exciting opportunities to enhance your investment portfolio, but they also come with additional risks that should be carefully considered.

We want to remind you that accounts subscribed to a Social Copy Trading or PAMM master account remain your own. Always review the activity and make any necessary adjustments to your subscriptions according to your needs.

Important Risk Reminder:

- Master Performance: Past performance of a master does not guarantee future results. Master strategies may not always be successful.
- Account Condition Variability: Results may vary due to differences between master and subscriber account conditions, such as account type and/or leverage.
- Equity Differences: Performance fee withdrawals and deposits/withdrawals in either the master or subscriber account will affect copied volume and results.
- Copy Ratio Multiplier: Adjusting any copy ratio multiplier will affect copy volume and impact results.
- Copied Volume: Symbol specifications and Trading terminal restrictions will affect copied volume. The copied volume will round to 0.01, 0.01 being the minimum volume possible. The effect of this will be that calculated volume by ratio may not be executed, and a lower or greater volume will be copied. This will affect comparable results between Master and Subscriber accounts.

- Multiple Subscriptions: Following multiple masters with the same account is not advised, as this may affect the results of one or all of the subscriptions.
